It has really been nice being in class with you and knowing you as a teacher. I'll remember our discussions, and sometimes heated arguments, in Sociology. Of course, we never did disagree, personally. It was really a fun experience working with you on the yearbook staff. Thank you very much for all those times and our dinner at Hagerstown. I'll try to keep in touch with you.

Friends,

Moments We've Shared

Many are the moments we've shared in this school year of 1977-78. When there are twelve hundred students who attended school for one hundred seventy-eight days, an average of eight hours a day, the moments shared are many.

The annual staff tried to capture what it considered the most meaningful of these moments. It was a task. After a great deal of planning and consideration a plan was devised. So the editors and the photographers and copy writers got busy and this was the plan.

The majority of the student body came to school in busses. This meant that some rode and shared the early morning hours and early evening hours with their classmates. Some of the busses had as much as a forty-five minute drive to pick up the students. They usually arrived at seven fifty and started their homeward trip at five after three. The students seemed just as anxious to get to school as they were to leave in the afternoon.

Once the students arrived at school a new sharing began. Some shared lockers. All shared in the classrooms. Friends tried to get in the same classes so that they could share in the learning processes. Many shared their extra time with teachers acting as assistants in the offices, the various labs, in the library, in the cafeteria, and in the elementary grades.

More Moments We've Shared

Many and happy were the moments shared in extra-curricular activities. It required a large number of hours for the juniors to prepare for the Prom. Families shared in this because the mothers prepared a breakfast for the juniors and seniors, teachers and their guests at four o'clock in the morning. Almost as many hours were shared preparing for the Homecoming.

Another activity which involved the sharing of the students and the community was the Fall Festival, sponsored by the Student Council. The students shared in preparing booths and shows. The community shared in making the affair a success by attending and the businesses gave gifts which were used as door prizes.

. . . And Even More

Each year the music department shares time and talent in a musical production. "Once Upon A Mattress" was the result of this sharing. It was performed before "sell-out" audiences for two nights.

Many students shared the feeling of "togetherness" as they chose an organization with which to work. There were fifteen organizations from which to chose. All of these had at least one performance to prepare for the school year.

Moments shared in sport activities were again in large numbers. Starting in the Spring and going through the Summer was baseball, followed by track, cross-country, football, golf, wrestling, and basketball for boys from seventh through twelfth. The girls had track, volleyball, and basketball.

Finally there were moments we shared with the Community in entertaining, in participating in drives such as Muscular dystrophy, and working in various businesses.

There were many moments shared and we captured in photographs and in copy the most unforgettable ones.

MOMENTS WE'VE SHARED IN Activities

The students, faculty and parents at Lapel participated in many activities this year. These included the annual Fall Festival, Homecoming, Variety Show, Prom, and the musical production of the uproarious comedy, "Once Upon a Mattress."

Prior to school starting, activities had gotten into full swing with senior picture taking, on one of the hotter days of the year, teachers orientation, and football practice.

Dream On

There is a lot of money to be saved from the time you're in junior high until you reach your junior year. Planning for a prom is an exciting event. Many juniors found it nerve racking; trying to get the decorations done, hoping the bands would show up, trying everything to make their prom the best possible.

The theme was "Dream On". Many dreams were put into this prom. There will always be memories of the great time we all had. It's fun to see everyone dressed up for the dance. After the prom, there was an after prom where one could dance, bowl or just talk to one another. Following the afterprom, a breakfast was served at the school by the junior mothers. The following day, everyone headed for Kings Island, Turkey Run or Brown County. The weekend gave many great memories for all.

-Miss Rocky-
I've really enjoyed being in Student Council and Class with you. You have to put up with alot of trouble and you always cover up your true fulings. You're a great lady and I'll keep in touch!

Love ya,
Renee'

It Was Raining

It was cold and raining on the night of October 7—the night of Lapel's Homecoming. The weather did not stop the Bulldog fans from the game. They came with umbrellas, blankets, and plastic coverings and watched the Bulldogs hold Shenandoah to a 3-0 score.

It was a winning night for Marla Breece who was chosen as the 1978 Homecoming Queen. Marla had as her escort John Eric Barker and for her court—seniors—Jill Shafer escorted by Joe Meyer; Paula Pentz escorted by Doug Troutman; junior-Jeannette Asbury escorted by Jon Davis; sophomore—Julie Hudson escorted by Brooke Fields; and freshman—Kelli Scott escorted by Jay Sylvester. Marla was crowned by last year's queen, Debbie Cook, who was escorted by Alan Bays, the Student Council representative.

On Saturday evening a dance was held in honor of the Queen and her court. Music provided by Hot Ash. The band, which was so well received by the students, made the event one which will always be remembered.

Each class had a float and these were judged before the game and the rain. There was a tie for first place between the seniors and juniors. Each had a huge football shoe. The seniors theme was "Get on the Good Foot," the juniors—"Stomp 'em."

Once Upon A Mattress

The story of the "Princess and the Pea," came to life with Lapel High School's spring musical comedy presentation of "Once Upon a Mattress." This musical adds a new dimension to a simple fairytale as it reveals such personalities as the domineering queen, (played by Joy French) the mute king, (role shared by David Carpenter and Mike Burris) the scheming wizard, (Bobby Schuyler) lovely Lady Larken (Nancy Cole), gallant Sir Harry, (Mark Fulton) the jovial jester, (Eddy Hardwick), Prince Dauntless the meek, (Tex Green) and moat-swimming Princess Winifred, (Paula Pentz).

The cast was completed by members of the kingdom who complimented the tale and acted as the chorus as well.

The best actor award went to two best actors Eddy Hardwick and Tex Green. Paula Pentz received the best Actress Award.

A Successful Fall Festival

Each year the Student Council is responsible for getting the Fall Festival under way and making sure everything runs smoothly. Ever year new and different ideas are used, but some of the old ones still stay around, like the spook house, cake walk, and coke toss.

One of the main reasons for the Fall Festival, is to make money. Every class and organization praticipates in this event by having some kind of show or booth. This is one of the major money-making events of the year. Proms and graduations are quite expensive and this is the reason for which most of the money is saved and used. The other main reason for the Fall Festival is the amusement it brings especially to the younger ones.

Another attraction of the Fall Festival is the King and Queen competition. The winner this year was the sophomore class, with the winning couple of Sherry Dodd and Darrin Webb.

The treasure hunt was one of the money-making projects for the seventh grade at the Fall Festival.

MOMENTS WE'VE SHARED IN

Belonging

Every high school alumnus remembers to which organizations he or she belonged. Lapel graduates can be proud of the many groups available to them, from the Student Council to the expanding National Honor Society. Let us not forget the students who volunteered to compile this annual.

Billy Carter—Council's Guest at the Dance-a-thon

The Student Council, composed of twenty members—two for seventh and two for eighth grade and four for each of the high school classes and meets every Monday, is the most active organization in Lapel High School. The primary purpose of this group is to establish good relations among the students with the faculty and the administration.

The events sponsored by the Student Council throughout the school year are varied. The first and year-long activity is monitoring the halls during the entire school day. The first big event is the Homecoming which is followed closely by the Fall Festival. Selecting the convocations is another activity. The Council works with the principal in this activity. At Christmastime the tree and other decorating is an activity. During the time after basketball season and the beginning of Spring activities, the Council provides featured films for entertainment.

Each year the Council has a special project—this year there were several—one was helping to get our school and student body ready for the North Central Association evaluation, another was helping raise money for the Josh Tudor fund. The most exciting was the Muscular Dystrophy dance-a-thon at Mounds Mall with special guest Billy Carter.

"Student Search '77"

The National Honor Soceity officially got underway with the introduction of the fourteen new members at an arousing morning convocation. The TV game show "Treasure Hunt" was revised by the old National Honor Society members and became "Student Search '77". The contestants, Sarah Scholarship, Sally Service, Leonardo Leadership, and Katy Character, came running down from the audience to search for the list of the names of the new members. The host of the show, Alpha Null, along with her beautifully dressed assistant, Delta Epsilon, broke the suspense and read the names of the new members.

The new members were formally inducted at a special ceremony given exclusively for them and their family and friends. After the induction, lots of food and fun was shared with everyone at a party which was given by the old members. To make the party complete everyone went to Brad Pavey's house so that he could share in the fun.

Kit Sales Keep S.S.S. Girls Busy

The Sunshine Society is becoming a more active organization than it was in the past. The sponsor and officers traveled to the Mariott Inn for the annual convention there. Learning to make favors and how to conduct meetings were among the topics covered. "May I show you a few things I'm selling for my school?" Even though the girls weren't too anxious to sell they did do a good job. The reward—a masterpizza! The girls look forward to the initiation this year which was held in the music building. A very impressive ending to the ceremony was the scene of the new members holding their lighted candles while the pianist played the Sunshine song.

Learning to Use Our Natural Resources

The FFA was very active this year. The group participated in: soil, judging, forestry contest, poultry judging, FFA Leadership camp, the National Convention in K.C., MO and a trip to the Indiana State Fair. Greenhand and Chapter Farmers degree's ceremonies were held for first and second year members. One especially important project was the beginning of a Junior FFA.

Building Tomorrow's Citizens

4-H shows students the true value of self-satisfaction they receive when their projects are completed. They learn the value of high quality work and how to accept responsibility of completing their projects on time.

4-H offers a variety of activities from which to choose. These cover areas from cooking to woodworking; from sewing to raising livestock; horse and pony clubs.

The main purpose of 4-H is to build leaders of tomorrow out of the youth of today. Making new friends and meeting people is an added highlight of the 4-H program. This plays an important role in the development of the good citizens of tomorrow.

"Quiet, Please"

The school library now has a total of well over 5,000 books. Most of these books have been selected from student's and teacher's requests. The classics and basic reference books are also included.

Students assist Mrs. Wells, librarian, in giving essential services. These assistants work one hour each day. Their duties include checking passes, stamping book cards, and shelving returned books. They receive one credit for this. These students become well-acquainted with the vast store of information available. It has been noted that library assistants do quite well when writing term papers.

A Rebuilding Year for Latin Club

The Latin Club, with its new sponsor, proved to be an active club this year. The main money-making project was a skating party which was very successful.

Many students were added this year by being initiated through the slave sale. Old members, recalling their initiation, seeked revenge by buying slaves to work for them.

The Latin Club is an organization of which the school can be proud.

After being sold to veteran members of the Latin Club, these new members must wear their owners' name.

Están Ganando Dińero

Some members get out of class to sing Christmas carols.

Members of the Spanish Club have been quite active in selling candy and candy apples in order to earn money to help with the annual Spring "break" trip to Mexico or Spain.

Each year they are invited to Ball State for foreign language days, where two or more students put on an original play in Spanish. An award was won last year by Beth Davis and Kaye Koomler.

Christmas Carols are sung in the hallways during the festive period and at other times the young people make pinatas and break them. Taco parties are held for all who like Mexican food.

New Organizations Formed

During the past year, Lapel has formed two new organizations. One of these is the Science Club with the only two requirements being that a member be at least a freshman and having one or more years of science. The sponsors hope that by forming this club they can get students to become more aware of what science can offer them. The second club is the FHA which was organized years ago, but this is the first year it has been at Lapel. The girls in this club prepare themselves for future homemaking. They have been very busy selling Christmas decorations to raise money and trying to win honor points for their chapter by helping their community.

The Band's New Faces

There was at least one new face added to the Lapel High School Band this year, that of Mrs. Carol Rushton. Mrs. Rushton took on probably one of the toughest responsibilities around—directing the band.

The band, making its debut for the 1977-78 school year in the Lapel Homecoming Parade, appeared very sharply dressed in new uniforms and sounded like a band of twice the size.

The Marching Bulldogs proved to be a brave bunch of very talented people as they performed despite the weather, from the pouring rain at the homecoming football game to the bitter coldness of the Veteran's Day Parade in Anderson.

One of the band's main functions during the school year was its performances at home basketball games. It really helped get the crowd excited and kept the pep club in good spirits during the game.

This year's jazz band was formed of twelve band members, playing only jazz music. The jazz band performed at the variety show and the seasonal band concerts.

Sharing Our Music

The Swing Choir has always entertained many people with its music. The places visited this year were; Turtle Creek Nursing Home, Riverview Hospital, and various organizations. The Swing Choir wasn't as busy this year as in past years, because many people wanted them to sing on nights of ballgames.

Miss Terhune sure has had her work cut out for her trying to schedule practices around every sport and activity in the school, since the majority of the members are engaged in many extra-curricular activities. Despite this fact, the Swing Choir tried to practice two nights a week besides performances. Still the members of the Swing Choir say, "We have fun sharing our music."

Choir Tries For High Note of Success

The Concert Choir had a very busy and successful year, with the help of Miss Terhune and Mrs. Rushton. The ninety voice choir performed in the Community Variety Show, the annual Thanksgiving service, the Christmas Show, and the Madison County Choral Festival.

With such a large enrollment, the choir was filled with talented and eager students who gave their all to keep up the high standards that the Concert Choir has always held. Since the concert choir was made up mostly of Freshman and Sophomores, it is sure to remain strong in the coming years.

Pep Club Recreates Old Tradition

Yelling and screaming being their main objective, the 150 member strong 1977-78 Pep Club reached its goal. Following the boys to away games as well as home games, the Pep Club did a tremendous job of backing the teams.

The old tradition of "Senior Cords" was brought back by this year's seniors as "Senior Bibs." The senior girls wanted something to remember their senior days by so they recreated the old tradition. Although the seniors were outstanding in their bibs they were still a part of the group as all had black and gold striped rugby shirts. The outfits were really sharp and received many compliments from rival fans as did the group as a whole. The Lapel Pep Club, as always, was an organization that was admired and praised by many.

Spirit Spreaders Spark Spirit

Cheerleaders keep the spirit moving no matter how difficult. Trying to get all the Lapel fans in the whole gym or on the football field to yell could be a major asset in winning the game. Not only is yelling helpful but also pep sessions and floor yells. A lot of credit should be given to the cheerleaders who spend many hours of their time and money at camps and clinics learning new techniques.

Busy As Bees

Running errands, answering the phone, running off papers, typing and keeping attendance are just some of the responsibilities of an office girl. These girls work extra hard to keep the high school in tip-top shape. Whenever anything needs to be done the office girls always came to the rescue. The office girl carries a lot of weight on her shoulder which doesn't receive all of the recognition it should.

The jobs of the workers in the front office range from taking lunch money to making announcements.

Working in the attendance office is not as easy as it seems. The girls must keep the records in order, write passes, and check attendance.

The girls in the guidance office were busy this year preparing for the North Central Evaluating Team, which came in March.

The athletic secretaries are kept busy with typing contracts, taking messages and placing phone calls.

Busy, Busy, Busy

Early in May the staff began to plan for the 1978 Bulldog. Joy Yancey and Beth Sandala, as the editors, went to Ball State University for a week of workshop activities. They learned about the proper procedures for assembling a yearbook. They were joined by Jeff Smith who specialized in photography.

During the months of July and August the staff sold advertisements. The community was divided into areas and a photographer and several sales people covered each area. This was successful as the sales amounted to $3,000.

The annual sales began right after the first deadline was finished. By the end of the sales campaign the staff was pleased that 700 annuals had been sold.

The Bulldog staff spent many long hours after school, on Saturdays and even on Sundays striving to meet deadlines. Through all of this the staff members were relieved that the job was done and they were proud of their accomplishments.

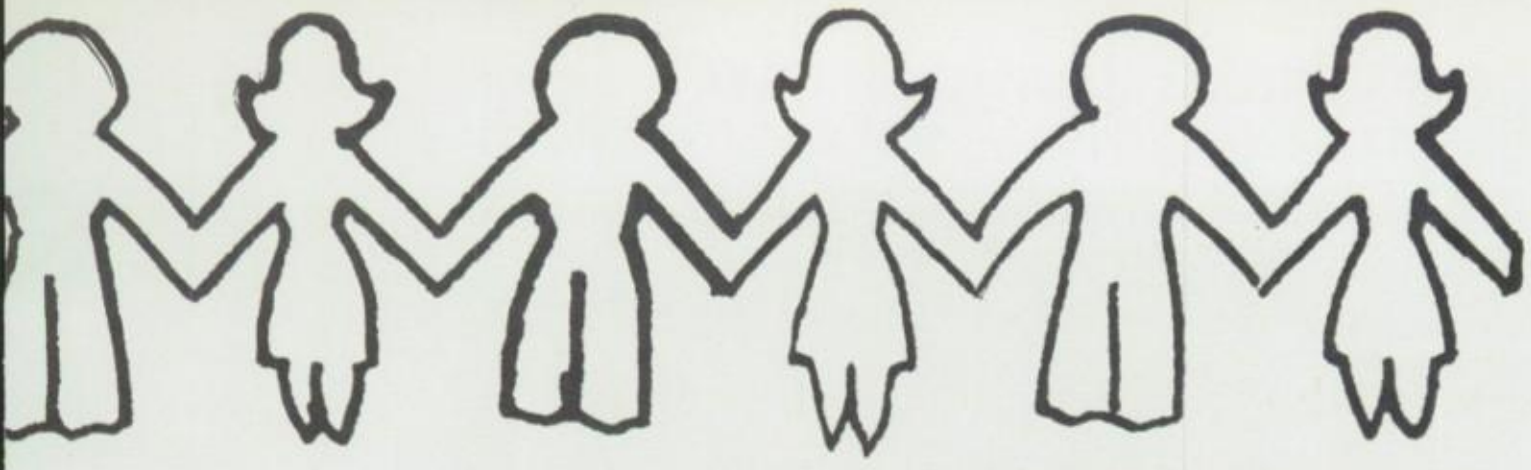
MOMENTS WE'VE SHARED IN Academics



Although there might seem to be an air of frivolity pervading many high schools all have their moments of serious academic contemplation. Lapel had its share this year of tests, lectures, quizzes, and college prep tests. Under the guidance of the counselors and the rest of the faculty, students, who so desired, could broaden their knowledge with the schools broadened curriculum.

The freshman literature class finishes their homework assignment.

The seventh grade finds that in junior high they have more math homework.

Hola! Bonjour! Ave!

The language department is composed of three foreign languages: Spanish, Latin, and French.

The Spanish classes use magazines and tapes to aid in the learning of the language. These methods stir new interest into the class.

Even though Latin is not a spoken language, it plays an important part in the development of a large vocabulary. It is one of the most helpful languages.

French students work hard learning the fundamentals of French as well as facts about the country. This year the French students had a chance to sample French food when they went to La Tours for a meal.

English, The Basis Of Communication

Like all languages, English has some characteristics that may make it easy to learn. It has other characteristics that make it hard to learn. At Lapel, English is a required subject for grades seven through eleven. Students preparing for college take Senior English the last period of the day. In English students learn the basics of grammar, study literature and read several novels. The seniors concentrate on compositions and term papers. The teachers in the English department show a great interest in the students, which encourages the students to be more active in English.

The junior English class listen attentively to what the teacher has to say.

Learning The Unknown

Science is important to everyone. Science has given the world such communication devices as the telephone, radio, and television. It has revolutionized transportation by means of the railroad, automobile, airplane, and rocket. It has made it possible for people to live longer through medical discoveries. Students at Lapel can further their education in science by taking such courses as Biology I and II, Chemistry, and Physics, as well as general science. In the past year a Science Club has been formed to help further the students interest in science.

World Problems: Past and Present

History classes, government, sociology, and psychology: helping us to learn about our country—past, present, and possibilities of the future, and also helping us to understand better our fellow men. These classes develop in the student a well-rounded knowledge readying him for his own future so he can make the best of it.

The junior high history classes experienced a student teacher while the senior classes experienced guest speakers. These changes in the daily routine helped to make the classes more interesting for all.

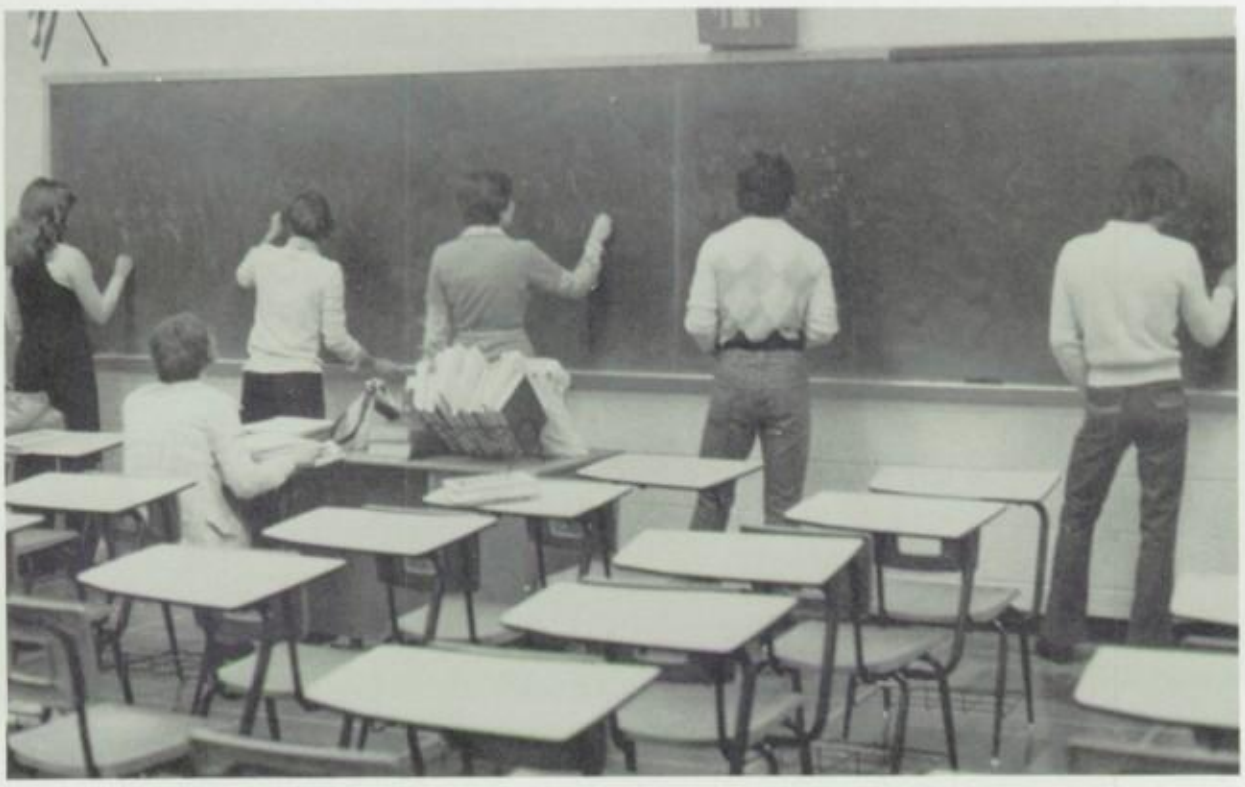
From Addition to Graphing



From general math through geometry, Algebra I, Algebra II, trigonometry, and finally to pre-calculus the students at Lapel High School get a good background in math. Whether its basic addition, subtraction, multiplication and division useful in everyday life, or finding derivatives and graphing inequalities helpful to college-bound students, our school offers it all. Through much individual help from teachers, the students solved those seemingly impossible equations.

Preparing For Everyday Life

When one thinks of Home Economics usually the only thing that comes to mind is cooking and sewing, but there are a number of other courses involved in Home Economics: Interpersonal Relationships, Home Management, Child Care and Consumer Buying are some of the other courses you may find yourself in when you take Home Economics.

Each year there is a surprisingly increasing number of boys taking Home Economics classes. For the girls it is always fun to watch the boys fumbling with a sewing machine or trying to make a pie, but any girl will tell you it's not as easy as it looks.

Taking Care of Business

Being a business student takes alot of hard work and determination. In almost any business course you take you must practice, practice, practice.

For typing students learning keys, proper business forms, and taking timings can be quite a job. Once it's all learned it comes naturally.

The girls who take shorthand must learn symbols and words which make up shorthand language. As in typing, speed and accuracy are very important.

Accounting students learn the vital steps in the accounting cycle for keeping records in order.

Consumer Economics and General Business classes learn important ways to be good consumers as adults.

Learning a Profitable Trade

Industrial Arts is a study of tools, materials, and processes of industry. Courses in drafting and shop help develop skill through experience and practical knowledge that is needed in ordinary situations.

Drafting is offered in all four high school years. The first year is spent learning the basics of mechanical drawing, the second year offers descriptive geometry, and the more difficult machine and architectural drawing complete the last two years.

Shop courses educate the student in working with plastics, wood, and metal. Advance Shop includes training in electronics, small engines, and auto mechanics.

Although planning ahead, neatness, and accuracy are emphasized, it is equally important to work safely.

Future Food Producers

The most important member in any society is the farmer. He is the backbone of society's needs. He supplies the food we need. Everything around us indirectly involves the farmer. Therefore the agriculture class teaches the value of farming and the new and better methods of farming and livestock raising. The students learn different breeds of hybrid and livestock.

This class is closely associated with the FFA in activities, which includes soil judging, entomology, poultry and forestry.

AAVTS Polishes Skills

Students wishing to prepare for the working world have the opportunity to take part in the many programs (twenty) offered by the Anderson Area Vocational Technical School. Lapel students spend either morning or afternoon classes at the AAVTS. There they learn trades which will help them find jobs after graduation.

A special two year course in small engines and appliances is popular with Lapel students. As are the data processing and data processing technology classes.

Keeping in Shape

Physical education gives students a chance to compete in many different activities. It provides physical activity as well as good sportsmanship.

Volleyball, gymnastics, basketball, and speedball, are just a few of the games that are played in phys. ed. Phys. ed. also requires written tests as well as individual skills tests.

Health teaches the student about personal hygiene and how a human functions. It teaches the student what to do in an emergency and how to apply first aid. Learning how to become emotionally strong is also taught in health class, this is very important in today's world.

"Sing, Sing a Song"

Miss Terhune directs her largest Concert Choir ever.

Everybody likes music. Music plays a big part in everybody's life. Moms and Dads like and listen to slow music while teenagers "rock 'n' roll" to that loud "noise." Now a credit is given for choir and high school students go around singing and humming all sorts of songs. It truly brightens up the day when you hear someone sing a beautiful song.

Right: Randy Mortan, Terry Heck, and Curt Stephenson—singing??

"Mrs. Perry . . . Help!"

The Art Department is growing every year. More and more supplies are being bought. Different and interesting ideas were developed such as: weaving on a loom, needlepoint, perspective paintings, and still lifes, just to name a few. These ideas challenged students to enroll in these classes.

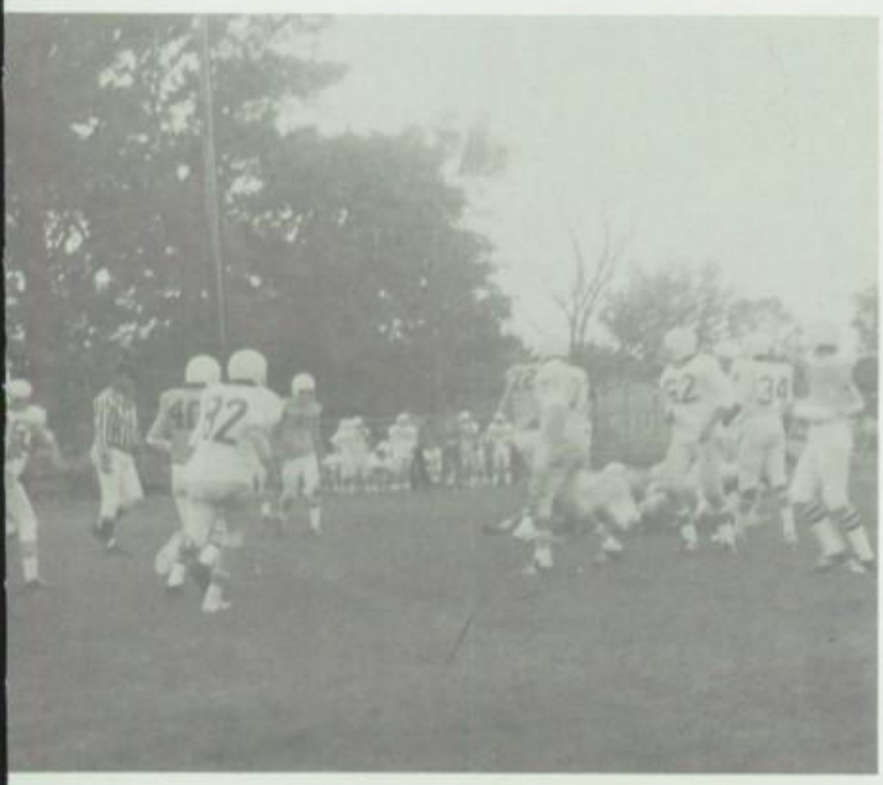
MOMENTS WE'VE SHARED IN

Athletics



As always Lapel fielded a good crop of athletes this year. Win or lose, with generally good morale, Lapel can be justifiably proud of their teams.

Lapel has been gifted with stars in basketball and this year our young football team was recognized when Gary Coomer was named to the U.P.I. 1st team as All-State offensive tackle.

Scrambling for yardage the Jr. High football team pushes for a victory.

The determined cross country runners await the shot of the gun at the WRC Tourney.

On your mark, Get Set, Go!

The girl's team tried hard this year, but only managed to end up with four wins and five losses. Lack of experience was part of the girls' problem. The team consisted mainly of freshman and sophomores with juniors and seniors giving the team depth.

Last season's trackmen put in a fine season competing against strong contenders. Each athlete not only had to make a strong individual effort but teamwork was also very necessary. Steve Wilson proved that both efforts had to work together. Not only did he set the school high jump record, but working with teammates Randy Morton, Jim Mills, and Roger Lawson they set the school record for the mile relay.

With next season at the starting gate the returning teammen should be ready to "toe" the mark for one of the best seasons ever.

Cross Country is not an easy sport in which to participate. It takes stamina, desire, and an individual's fortitude to make a good runner. Practice consists of 4 to 5 miles a day and in any kind of weather conditions.

This year's Cross Country team didn't do as well as expected. The team had a record of 4-9. Although the team didn't have that many bright points in the season, Randy Morton attained the honor of being on the WRC All-Conference Cross Country Team.

Records were set by senior Kip Barker with 69 in the WRC, and by the team with a 299 at Grandview Golf course. Tournament-wise we did very well, finishing third in the conference and seventh in the sectional. With many returning lettermen for next year, Lapel's opponents had better watch out.

This season's ball club showed a fine example of athletic competition. Practically everything done was an improvement over last year.

It was a year of a conference championship. Four players, Jon Renbarger, Jim Mills, Jon Howell, and Denny Plummer made the all conference team, while two others, John Barker and Bobby Fields made honorable mention.

With nine returning lettermen, next season's team should be able to carry on the winning tradition.

Winners from the Losses

"You can't tell a book from it's cover" goes the old saying. That seems to be the best way of summing up the 1977 football season. With a record of 0-10 it would seem that the entire season was a bust. Nothing was farther from the truth.

Records were being made constantly. Junior back Kent Hiatt was a leading county rusher for the entire season. Senior end Jim Baker showed he could receive as well as pass. On the line, senior Gary Coomer and junior Bill Denny saw to it that Hiatt had a hole to run through and Baker had a wall from which to pass.

Over all, the team as a whole was a vast improvement over last year's team. Several members went on to All Conference, All County, and All State. WRC—Kent Hiatt, Gary Coomer, Bill Denny, Chris Husted. All County—Chris Husted, Kent Hiatt, Gary Coomer, Jim Baker, All State—Gary Coomer, (UPI), Kent Hiatt (AP)

Varsity Training Begins Here

The reservists found themselves in an unusual position. Not only were a majority of them playing their own games during the week, but on Friday nights they found themselves pulling on Varsity colors and playing beside A-team lettermen. By doing this, many of them not only won their first varsity letters, but began to pave the way for a winning team in the years to come.

Many young boys began building their professional dreams on the junior high football program. Although there aren't any Namaths or Tarkingtons yet, by the time these boys make it to high school they should give the school a team of which to be really proud.

Grapplers Grab A Win

Although it is not able to compete with basketball in popularity at Lapel, wrestling is slowly beginning to gain respect. The grapplers, wrestling only about half of their meets because of bad weather, won their first match since the 1974-75 wrestling season. Lapel managed to capture six fourth place finishes and one third place finish in the wrestling sectional. A 1-4 regular season record is nothing to brag about, but the wrestling program has improved, and hopefully next year Lapel will have a winning record.

"We Are The Champions"

This year's action can only be described as unpredictable. The Bulldog's season was filled with constant "ups" and "downs". After an impressive start of 4-0, the Bulldog machine started in a tailspin which sent their impressive 4-0 record to 4-4. Then the tables turned again. The Bulldogs went into the WRC Tourney with the 4-4 record and were considered a "dark horse". Then the thrilling tourney developed many upsets and the Bulldogs capitalized on every mistake and with a 60-33 victory over Mt. Vernon. The Bulldogs brought home their first trophy ever to be won in the WRC.

Passed Around Like Basketballs

Both the Freshman and Reserve players found themselves bounced around almost as much as the basketballs. Freshman dressed not only for their own games but Reserve and sometimes Varsity. The Reserve realized that this was the last stop before they reached their goal—Varsity ball.

The Bulldogs will have a lot to look forward to as these young athletes mature into next year's squad.

Girls volleyball is progressing each year. Many skills and different drills are taught. You may have all the skills and experience necessary to make the team, but you have to be psychologically in the game to make a win.

This year both the reserve and the varsity came out with pretty even scores. The varsity played in the Frankton Invitational and played very well. The White River Conference volleyball coaches selected the WRC team for 1977. This year it included Elaine Looper and Reneé Turner. Shelly Ramsey was voted honorable mention.

We Start Them Out Early

This year the seventh and eighth grade girls started a new program with the help of a new coach. They participated in volleyball and basketball. Although they didn't have a lot of games, they still had winning records. They learned the fundamentals of these sports to prepare them for a more mature and competitive level of volleyball and basketball. They also learned the importance of competition and working together.

That's The Way The Ball Bounces

This year's Girls' Basketball team showed that it had spirit although it didn't have a winning season. The girls did give many teams a scare though. All girls on the team showed their basketball talent at one time or another and were proud of making the team. The team provided many exciting moments for the parents and the student body at Lapel. Next year the returning girls will be ready to play and try to better their record.

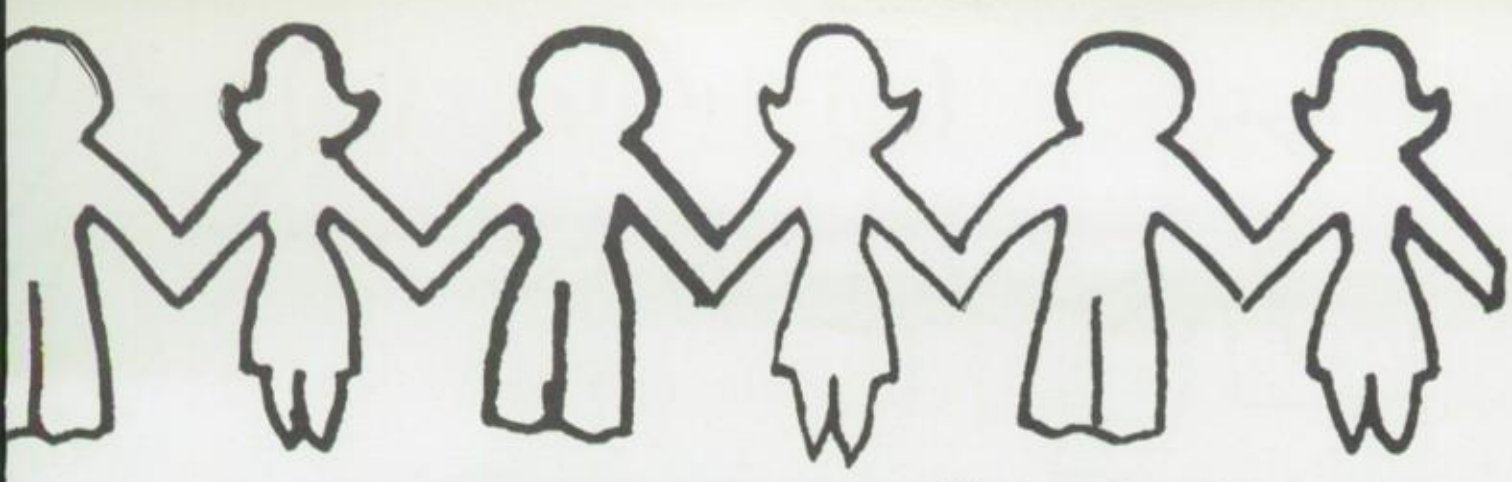
MOMENTS WE'VE SHARED WITH People



Whatever the activity, academic or extracurricular, people are what make the school. From the superintendent to the kindergarten the atmosphere of participating and helping is shared by all.

It is interesting to note, for the students, that those graduating this year have lived through the Vietnam War, Watergate, moon landings, assassinations, and six presidents, which adds up to a lot of history and memories.

Memories Begin at the Top

There are moments we shared right at the top of our school system. Mr. Gerald Roudebush who was our teacher, later became our principal. Today he is the superintendent of our entire system.

Mr. St. John was our agriculture teacher and now he is a school board member. George Likens was a former student, now a board member.

At our high school level, many moments were shared with Mr. Pike, our principal, and his Civil War mementoes. Many moments of our elementary years were shared with Mr. Howell as the elementary principal. These moments showed that work well done is rewarded by a higher position.

Teachers: Sharing With Us

Teac her—(tē chēr) n.—1. one who teaches; 2. a person who cares; 3. a well qualified professional; 4. a friend. Every teacher seemed to fit into the definition. Anytime a student had a problem, needed advice, or just wanted to talk, he could usually find a teacher to listen. They gave us guidance, enjoyment and made us think. Many of us know that they would still be there to help us in time of need. All of them had influenced us at sometime in our school life and through this they have earned their place in the moments we've shared.

Teachers Are People, Too

As we grew we found that teachers were people too. They laughed and joked like us and at times cried. They, too, were teenagers once and did many of the same things we did. Yet most importantly they showed us that teaching was more than just a job for them, it was a part of their life.

Starting Over

As the doors opened for us twelve years ago, we greeted it with mixed reactions. The thought of starting something new not only made us feel happy and proud, but confused and frightened.

Twelve years—to some it seemed only a moment and to others it was a lifetime. The things that happened then, whether they were big or small, shaped each of us into our own distinct patterns.

Now the cycle has been completed. As we start outside the doors to our future, we find that we feel much the same as we did from the beginning: happy, proud, confused, and frightened. Yet, as we face the future, we will still hold tight to the moments we had in school—the moments we shared.

Feeling Proud

As seniors, we felt a certain amount of pride. We were proud to sit on the front row during convos, take days out to visit colleges, and take advantage of all the other senior privileges. But, we also learned that along with these came responsibility, not only to our school, but to the community as well. Suddenly we were the ones everyone was watching and it was up to us not to let them down. By the end of the year we discovered the school and the community had as much pride in us as we took in them.

Looking Ahead

At the beginning of the year one of the most frightening revelations about our senior year was that it was our last. After it was over we would have to say good-bye to our school and many of our friends and prepare for our own lives. Some of us chose college, while others wanted to work. There were still a few who were lost, but most of us had a good idea of what our futures would be.

Yesterday's Memories

High school held many memories for us. Who could forget our first football homecoming we had as sophomores or the last we had as seniors? Remember all the crazy stunts we had in our pep-sessions and the zany "spirit days" just before the sectional.

There were times in class, in the halls, in the cafeteria, and in town that made us laugh. There were others that made us cry. Yet with the help of our parents, teachers, and friends we struggled through.

It's Over

Now it's over. We've made it through twelve years of working, playing, dating, practicing, and living. Although this has been only a small portion of our lives it will influence us forever. As we leave we can only hope that we have given our school, community, parents, and friends as much as they have given us.

One More Year

Junior students found themselves sitting on the middle of the fence often this year. With the Fall Festival, Homecoming, and most importantly the Prom, they were taking on as much responsibility as the seniors, yet without freedom. Somehow they struggled through and felt they were more than ready to accept the leadership, respect, and excitement of their senior year.

Sophomores Hit All-Time High

Magazine sales, pre-prom decisions, fund raising ideas, and a million other things seemed to pile up on the sophomores as they came one step closer to their senior year. With top-notch sponsors helping, they went well over their goal in magazine sales. By the end of this year, they will have finally learned the maturity and cooperation they will need for the rest of their high school days.

Decisions, Decisions, Decisions!

The Freshmen learned very quickly that high school life is definitely full of choices. Classes, class colors, class rings, and a variety of other choices had to be made. Yet under the guidance of their class sponsors they managed to struggle through. After being fully indoctrinated into high school life they realized the meaning of "freshmen." Now they are ready to accept both the responsibilities and fun of their sophomore year.

Preparing for High School

After recovering from their first encounter with the hustle and hurry of the junior high routine, the eighth graders began preparing themselves for their entrance into high school.

As they eagerly awaited the end of their last year as "kids" they realized that the next four years were going to be almost as much work as the last eight.

The Little Kids

This year the seventh graders found the move from elementary seniors to high school "babes" a little frightening, not to say confusing. All of a sudden it was rush, rush, RUSH! Rush to class, rush to lunch, rush back to class, but then the best rush of all came, rush for home.

By now, most of them have realized that high school life takes a lot of work, but along with that comes a lot of fun. When next year rolls around, they should be more than ready to give up their place as "the little kids."

In The Beginning

The jobs of the elementary teachers were very complex. Not only did they have to teach the basics of reading, math, and writing, but they also had to lay the foundation for each student's school career. It was up to them to try to form good study habits, common courtesy, and codes of hygiene and appearance. By the time the students were ready to leave the elementary, they were fully prepared for high school life.

Temporary Moms And Dads

For most of the teachers, having the same students for most of the day was an advantage. Not only were they able to help each student overcome the daily obstacles they came across, but they were able to become very close to their kids. As the year wore on they became temporary mothers and fathers to all their "children." Without the care and devotion they showed, many of us would not have come as far as we have.

The Beginning Of Leadership

As sixth graders, many of the kids realized the pleasures and the responsibilities of leadership. Now they were the "top-dogs" on the playground or in the gym, but they still had to set the examples for the younger kids. As the year ended, though, they would have to accept new roles as they prepared to change from elementary leaders to high school followers.

Taking time out to listen to a story makes class more enjoyable.

The fifth graders found themselves in the same boat as the juniors. Taking on as much work as the sixth-graders, but not given the same status, they were forced to play second often. Next year they will be prepared to take over the duties of "elementary seniors."

Varied Accomplishments For Fourth Graders

As the year ended the fourth graders had much to be proud of. In the classroom they had learned the use of reference materials, complicated multiplication tables, and the metric system. Outside of class there were all sorts of Little League programs for both the girls and the boys.

Beginning To Grow

Going from S's and U's to A's and F's was a big move for the third graders. Now they were on their way to becoming the "big kids." Yet along with the growing came more responsibility. But as the year progressed and the kids grew more, they came to realize that the work was an important phase of school life.

The second graders found themselves in what seemed to be the middle of the road. Although they were not first graders, they were still new to the learning business. Printing was a thing of the past. Joining letters to make words was their accomplishment. They found even though school was fun, it was still a lot of work.

Learning From More Than Books

The first day of school was greeted with a variety of different responses from the first graders. Some were excited, others sad, but most were just plain scared. From that first day they began to learn, and not just from books. They learned sharing, friendship, and a certain degree of independence. As the year drew to a close, they knew they were ready for their first summer vacation.

Accomplished Students

Although lost in a mass of students, pupils who achieve and maintain high grades and perform well in various fields are recognized at Lapel High for their personal efforts. Convocations throughout the school year award certificates of merit, announce final candidates for honorary trips, and reveal recipients. Every year two boys and two girls are evaluated and selected to go to Boys' State and Girls' State. Yearbook editors attend the workshop sponsored by Ball State University.

Not To Be Taken for Granted

The jobs of the cooks, bus drivers, and custodians are sometimes taken for granted, but without them we could not run the school. Students would not have hot meals to eat for lunch; they would have to find their own way to school and the school would not be neat and clean.

So each and everyone has an important job. The cooks have to cook and serve well balanced meals to hundreds of students everyday. The busdrivers have to travel miles to pick up students, but they always get them to school safe and on time. The custodians work day and night keeping the school neat and clean. Remember no job should be taken for granted.

New Talent Discovered

October 22, at 7:30 p.m., was the time that Lapel High inaugurated a variety show with the combined efforts of the community and various school groups. All of this was under the direction of Rosilyn Oleksy.

The program started with the Swing Choir and Concert Choir and their various songs and skits. The band and flag and rifle corps added to the fun. Gary Stump and his "strange helpers" presented the "pie in the face" and other hilarious actions. Miss George's first grade did a "rag-doll" routine which delighted everyone. The Pentz family, Paula, Jeanna, Georgiana, and Andrea, accompanied by their mother, sang.

Former students, Tex Green, George Paulsel, Ronnie Howell, Joy French, and Jan Kluth also sang. The Hamilton Heights Swing Choir made up the final action of the night. The entire show was so well received that everyone hopes it will be an annual event.

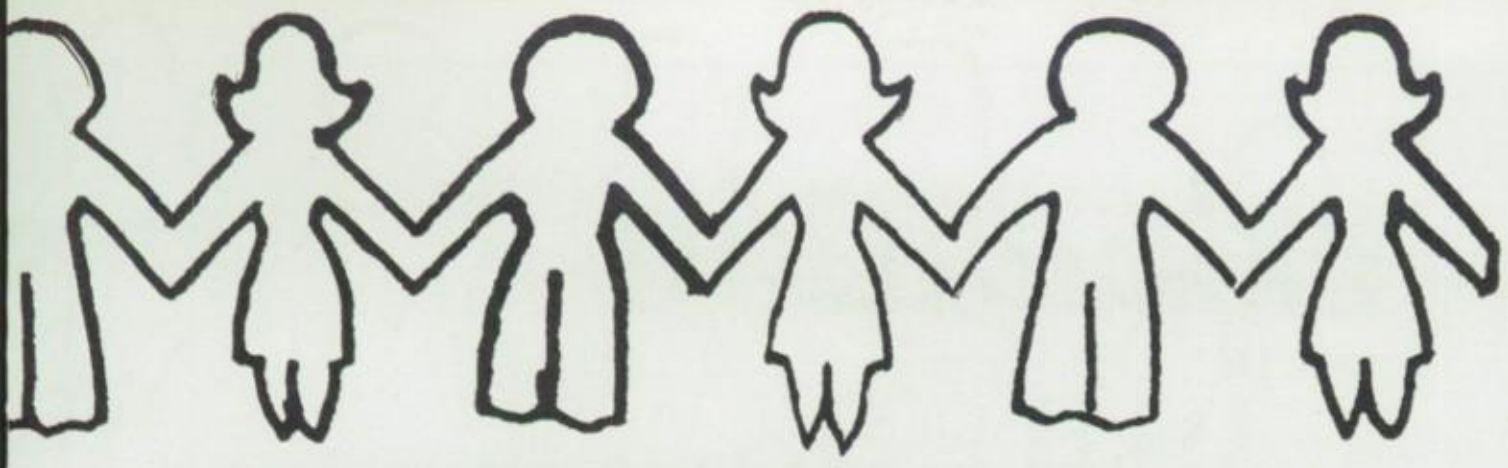
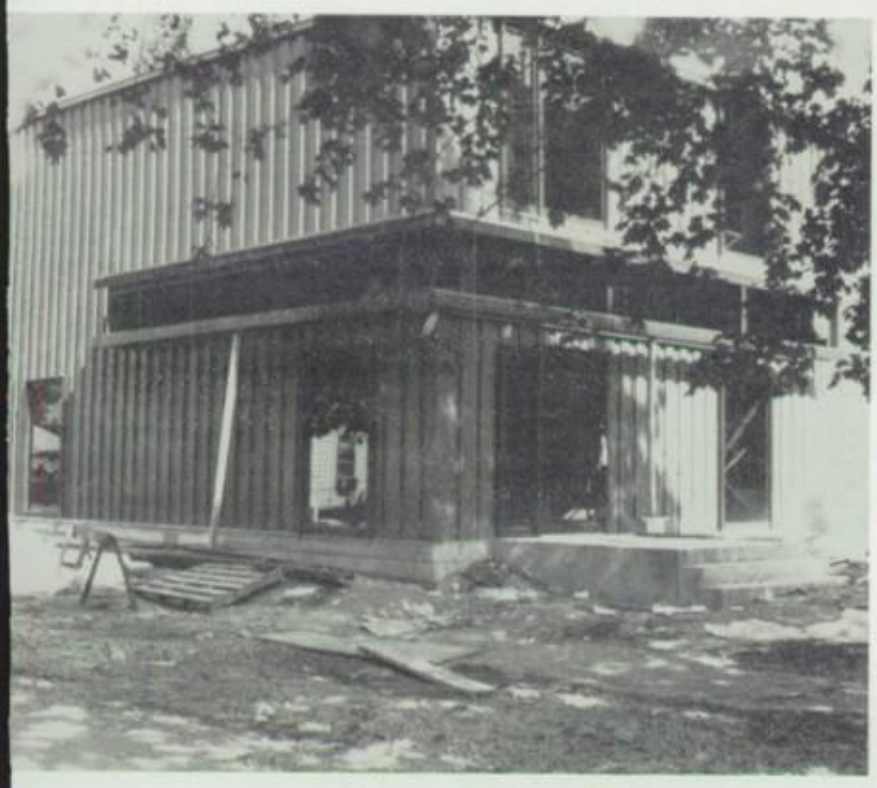
MOMENTS WE'VE SHARED IN THE Community



Organizations and people in and outside of Lapel are necessary to produce our yearly labor of memories, the Bulldog. To these old and new sponsors we say THANK-YOU!!



Lapel Sheet Metal is one of the newer buildings in our community.

Thanks to the Optimist Club we will have a lasting memorial.

Education is a gas.

It lights up dark places.

It lifts your sights.

It inflates the ego.

Not everybody likes it.

But nobody goes far without it.

And the more you have,
the farther you can go.

We hope you'll keep going with your education. And, when the time comes, you'll think about Delco-Remy as a good place to work.

Why, when the deadline is nigh?
Both arrived at approximately the same time
Causing anxiety about meeting our deadline.

If we would ever get back, we weren't sure.

Moments We've Shared

There were many moments we've shared and we have captured what we thought were the most memorable.

We shared many happy moments in the extracurricular activities—the Fall Festival, the movies, the Prom, Mother Goose night, dances after the games—the Sweetheart Dance, and the convocations. But the most exciting moments were shared when the Lapel Bulldogs won the White River Basketball Conference Championship.

As the work on our yearbook ends we the editors would like to thank all who helped.

A special thank you to those staff members, who worked when the area was snowbound for seventeen days; to Brad Pavey, who is our homebound senior, for his contributions in copy; to Larry Glaze, our consultant; Rob Bennett and Ron Plum for the group photography; to Lucille Rockey, our advisor.

The Editors:
Jeff Smith
Joy Yancey
Beth Sandala

These Seniors were together for twelve years at Jackson Twp. and Lapel

Below: These seniors were at Lapel for twelve years.

-Miss Rockey-
What would we have done this year without your help. We really appreciated your help. During the snow days, we almost had to stay over night to get the work done. I didn't think we were gonna get all the pictures we need but we did it! Thanks for everything!

Love ya!
Elaine

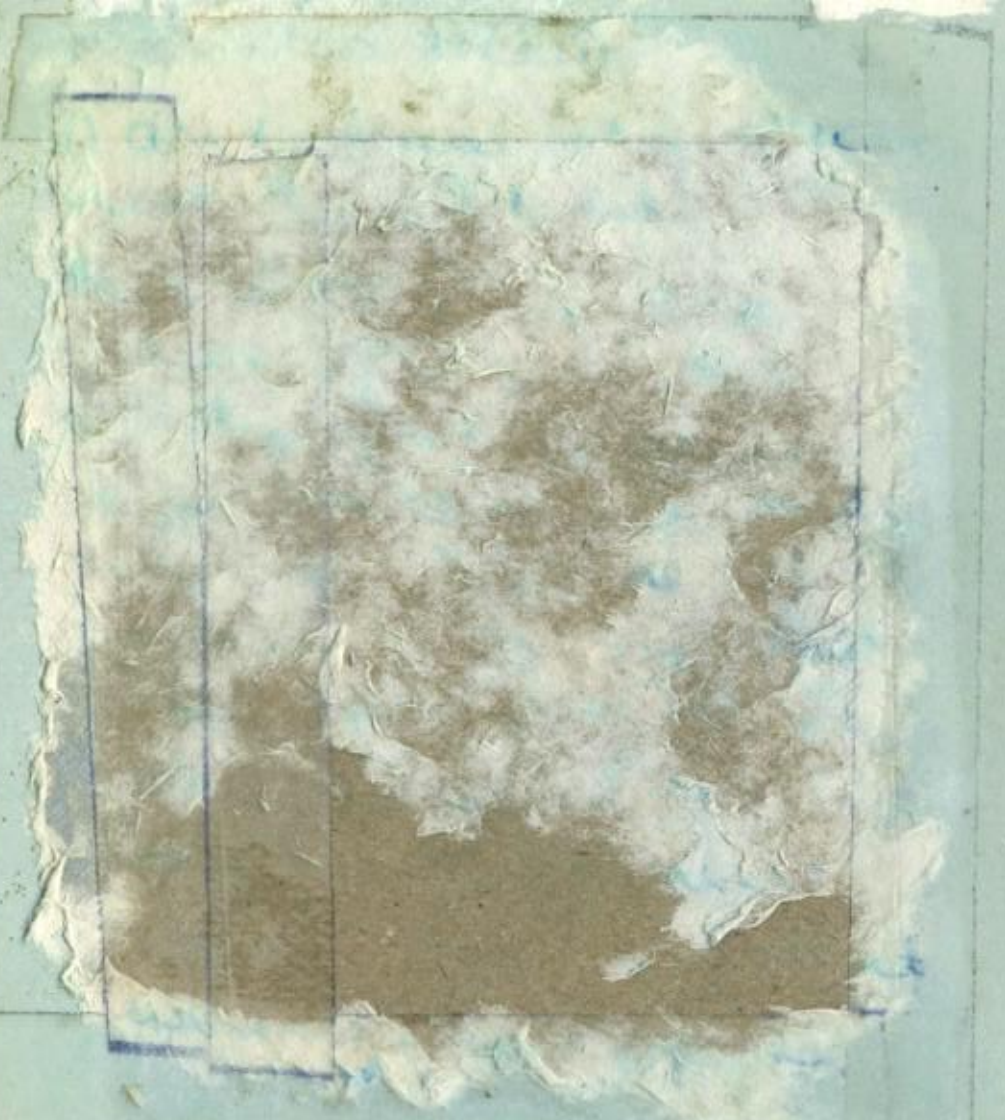
-Miss Rockey-
I've really enjoyed my senior year here in Government class. Tell Edith Woodward I said thanks for my graduation present. May God Bless you both! Love and luck
Brad Boone

-Miss Rockey-
It's a really great teacher and annual sponsor. I don't know what the annuals would look like if you weren't there to help. Probably terrible). Thanks for being so nice to me in class, and double thanks for that great meal at Hagerstown.

Love
Joyce Bodenhorn

-Miss Rockey-
Thanks for all your help, and for putting up with me. Hope we have a nice year. Also, I deserve a pay raise. Have a nice summer and don't work too hard.

Love,
Pam



Miss Rockey,
You really put up with a lot of things this year but everything turned out alright. I really like the annual. Thank you for your help.
Alminda

Miss Rockey,
This year has been a pleasure and I think I've learned more in your class than I could of in any other. After the summer I plan of leaving this town, but I'll be back only to visit. It is time I found out what the outside world is all about! Love
Gayle Kepner

Miss Rockey,
Thank you so much for helping both 2nd and 3rd years of the yearbook. I've enjoyed the years on the yearbook & appreciate the times you took me out to eat. Welcome back & you next year. Bye
Love
